MentorPRO's Megyn Jasman Earns Master's Degree in Community Psychology

Boston, MA - July 15, 2024 MentorPRO, a leading provider of evidence-based mentoring solutions, is proud to announce that Megyn Jasman, Director of Partner Success, has earned her Master of Arts in Community Psychology from Central Connecticut State University.

Ms. Jasman's dedication to understanding how mentoring programs can bridge gaps in services and student support has been unwavering. Her particular interest lies in the important role of the mentors - their experiences and benefits. Her thesis explored motivations to mentor as related to mentor experiences and outcomes, with the goal of informing the ways in which mentoring programs can recruit and retain dedicated mentors.

Ms. Jasman's thesis, titled College Peer Mentors: Indirect Effects of Motives to Apply on Job Satisfaction details implications for mentoring programs on promoting positive outcomes for mentors, mentees, and the mentoring program as a whole. Findings emphasize exploring recruitment techniques that target mentors' unique motivations and fostering mentoring experiences that fulfill their needs, such as meaningfulness of work and a sense of mentor self-efficacy. Anyone who wishes to discuss findings in further detail can contact Megyn at megyn.jasman001@umb.edu.

"Megyn's accomplishment is a testament to her commitment to professional growth and her passion for making a positive impact by engaging with community partners," said Jean Rhodes, Co-founder of MentorPRO and Director of the Center for Evidence-Based Mentoring at UMass Boston. "Her expertise in community psychology will be invaluable as we continue to revolutionize the mentoring field and empower today's youth."
